This time next year, you will be twice my age.

Oh wait, I'm not helping, am I?

Last Tuesday, I realized that it was the 18th anniversary of my 18th birthday, which made me giggle a bit. I don't feel old or anything (dude, I'm only 36) but I found it interesting to consider that I am now closer to 50 than I am to 18, and that someone born on my 18th birthday can now vote. Because I swear that this all just happened yesterday.

Wibbly-wobbly. Timey-wimey.

I got carded on the 21st anniversary of my 21st birthday! It was awesome!

I don't know where the time goes either. Probably the same place the missing pens and socks go.

The Doctor probably knows, though.

I don't know, but if you can convince it to stick around these parts a while longer, I'd thank you for it. :)

Happy birthday!

Geez. Well, you only have eleven years on me. Which means less now than it did eleven years ago.

Happy birthday! (And if you figure out where the time goes, let me know? wry)

I heard that the government feeds all of it to the Roswell aliens.

And Happy Birthday!

February is an excellent month for birthdays.
